4. The regulations OCR enforces prohibit discrimination on the basis of race, color, national origin, sex, disability, or age. The regulations also ban retaliation against persons who assert the right to be free from discrimination. Please note the following:

- Discrimination based on race, color, and national origin includes failure to provide meaningful access to English learners and limited English proficient parents and guardians, as well as discrimination based on shared ancestry or ethnic characteristics or based on citizenship in a country with a dominant religion.

- Discrimination based on sex includes discrimination based on sex stereotypes, pregnancy or related conditions, sexual orientation, and gender identity, as well as rules about parental, family, or marital status that treat people differently based on sex.
- Discrimination based on disability includes discrimination against individuals who have a physical or mental impairment that substantially limits a major life activity, as well as individuals who have a record of or are regarded as having a disability.
- Discrimination based on age does not limit protection against discrimination to a certain age group (e.g., people over 40); however, there are a variety of exceptions to the relevant Federal law that may permit age to be taken into account.
- Retaliation refers to actions taken for the purpose of interfering with any rights under the laws enforced by OCR, or because you made a complaint, testified, or participated in any manner in an OCR proceeding.

Please indicate the basis of your complaint:

Discrimination based on race (specify)

Discrimination based on color (specify)

Discrimination based on national origin (specify)

Discrimination based on sex (specify)

Georgia State University is discriminating on the basis of sex by providing women with unequal athletic participation opportunities, unequal athletic scholarship dollars, and unequal treatment and benefits, including athletic recruitment funding

Discrimination based on disability (specify)

Discrimination based on age (specify)

Retaliation because you filed a complaint or otherwise asserted rights under laws enforced by OCR (specify)

Violation of the Boy Scouts of America Equal Access Act (specify)

5. Please describe each alleged discriminatory act. For each action, please include the date(s) the discriminatory act occurred, the name(s) of each person(s) involved and, why you believe the discrimination was because of race, disability, age, sex, etc. Also please provide the names of any person(s) who was present and witnessed the act(s) of discrimination.

Georgia State University is denying 131 women's athletic opportunities in order to provide athletic opportunities that are substantially proportionate to men's and women's enrollment, or Prong 1 or the "Proportionality Test." Women are 60.64% of the student body, but they are provided just 48.18% of the student-athlete opportunities. Georgia State must add 131 additional athletic opportunities for women in order to provide athletic opportunities substantially proportionate to enrolment. Georgia State double or triple counts 68 women, and zero men. That means Georgia State is only providing 131 women with an athletic opportunity, and 214 men, even though women are 60% of the student-body. With 345 athletes instead of 413, this means women at Georgia State are just 37.9% of the athletes.

Georgia State University sponsors:

6 men’s varsity sports (Baseball, Basketball, Football, Golf, Soccer, and Tennis) for 214 men

8 women’s varsity sports (Basketball, Beach Volleyball, Track, Golf, Soccer, Softball, Tennis, and Volleyball) for 131 women.

In our attached letter, we provide detailed facts that Georgia State University cannot meet Prong 2 or Prong 3 either.

We include a chart with 19 years of EADA data showing that the school does not have “a continuing practice of program expansion which is demonstrably responsive to the developing interests and abilities of the members of that sex.”

In addition, we detail that there is considerable women’s interest and athletic ability from: the school’s conference members, from the school’s competitive geographical area, and from their high school recruiting pool. We note the NCAA’s “emerging sport” list of sports that are growing quickly, and links to sports governing bodies, which makes it very easy to see where women’s teams are, and where they are expanding. Georgia State University will have many sport choices for new women’s sports.

We also checked the school’s website and found Georgia State University does not provide avenues to add more women’s sports, it is not assessing the interests and athletic abilities of its students to determine which new sports to add, and its Title IX page is devoted to sexual harassment and violence, ignoring sex discrimination in the athletic department.

The failure to provide women with equal opportunities to play impacts the availability of athletic scholarship dollars for women. These are important sources of funding for educational attainment that women are being denied because of their sex. If Georgia State provided its male and female students with the same opportunities to participate, Georgia State would need to add $4,460,512 additional athletic scholarship dollars, per year, to balance out the amount Georgia State provides to its male students. If, for some reason, the OCR determines that Georgia State is, in fact, not discriminating against women in providing opportunities in sport, the ratio used is the student athletes, instead of the student body, and no more scholarship dollars would be required from Georgia State.

Georgia State University needs to give women’s teams an additional $211,820 in recruiting funds, based on enrollment. If, for some reason, the OCR determined that Georgia State University is, in fact, not discriminating against women in providing opportunities in sport, Georgia State University would still need to provide its women’s sports teams – and women’s coaches – with $10,851 more recruiting dollars in order to be consistent with the school’s investment in men’s sports.

In order to address these disparities, Champion Women requests that the Office for Civil Rights (“OCR”) investigate Georgia State University to determine whether it is discriminating against women in its athletic department. Additional Title IX violations are expected to be found, including facilities, publicity, promotional support, and travel, to name just a few. When violations are found, secure assurances of compliance with Title IX that include full remedies.

13. Option to Participate in OCR’s Early Mediation Process

OCR provides an early mediation process as an opportunity for you and the recipient institution to voluntarily resolve your complaint soon after you file it with OCR.

Mediation is a form of complaint resolution that OCR offers as an alternative to its investigative process. Mediation is an informal process in which a staff member from OCR who is trained in mediation assists the parties to reach a negotiated resolution of the complaint. The mediator does not decide who is right or wrong and does not have the authority to impose a settlement on the parties. Instead, the mediator helps the parties to find a mutually acceptable resolution to your complaint. Mediation is a strictly voluntary process. If either party does not want to participate in mediation, OCR will address the complaint through its regular processes.

If you are interested in participating in the early mediation process, you must check the box below. If you indicate your interest in early mediation by checking the box below and OCR determines that your complaint is appropriate for this process, OCR will contact you and the recipient institution and offer this resolution option. If the recipient agrees to participate in early mediation, OCR will work with you and the recipient to achieve a mutually agreeable resolution of your complaint. If the recipient does not wish to participate in early mediation, OCR will proceed with its regular processing of your complaint. If you do not indicate your interest in early mediation by checking the box below, early mediation will not be offered to you and OCR will proceed with its regular processing of your complaint.

I am interested in participating in early mediation (Please check box):

14. What would you like the institution to do as a result of your complaint
— what remedy are you seeking?

- Investigate Georgia State University to determine whether it is discriminating against women; whether it is providing female students with equal participation opportunities in varsity athletics, equal and proportionate athletic scholarship dollars, equal treatment and benefits, including equal recruiting budgets.
- Take all necessary steps to remedy and all unlawful conduct identified by Title IX and its implementing regulations.
- To add more athletic opportunities for women, and to accord women athletes and these additional teams the full range of benefits accorded to men's varsity teams and athletes, such as equipment and supplies; game and practice times; travel and per diem allowances; coaching and academic tutoring; assignment and compensation of coaches and tutors; locker rooms, practice, and competitive facilities; medical and training facilities and services; housing and dining facilities and services; and publicity. Increase scholarship and recruiting budgets and opportunities, to be equal to the men's, and adopt and implement a plan to achieve full compliance with Title IX throughout the entire athletic department.
